

EDIC award Evaluation Rubric

Criteria	Superior	Good	Fair	Poor or missing
	4	3	2	1

The proposal has an abstract that clearly and succinctly describes the project, its importance in the field, relation to diversity, equity, inclusion and/or social justice, and its outcomes.
--	--	--	--	--

The proposal indicates the significance of the work, its contribution to the field, and teaching. It shows how this work is an outgrowth of earlier research, undertakes a new direction, or continues an ongoing project.
--	--	--	--	--

The proposal indicates how this project fits into the larger disciplinary field, or, if interdisciplinary, what fields will find this work of interest. It clearly states a

---

The proposal is written with a specialist audience in mind; it is well organized, persuasively written, and meets the stated length restrictions and format requirements.
Total Points

Failure to follow format and organizational guidelines will result in an automatic rejection of the proposal.